GAME ON CANCER! HFHS, DETROIT LIONS RAISE FUNDS FOR JFCI

The Detroit Lions and Henry Ford Health System (HFHS) officially kicked off the "Game On Cancer" at the Lions' home game against the Cincinnati Bengals on Oct. 20.

"Game On Cancer" is a unique partnership between the Detroit Lions and HFHS with a goal to raise $15 million during the next three years for cancer research at the Josephine Ford Cancer Institute (JFCI).

HFHS patients and employees helped form the fan tunnel on Ford Field at the kick-off game. Executive chairman of Ford Motor Company Bill Ford Jr. and his wife, Lisa, serve as the honorary co-chairs for "Game

On Cancer."

"We're very proud to have two major Detroit institutions – both with decades-long history in this city – partner for the 'Game On Cancer' campaign," says System CEO Nancy Schlichting.

"'Game On Cancer' is more than just a partnership between the Detroit Lions and Henry Ford; it's a way to engage the community," says Schlichting. "We want them to be a part of our team in supporting our 'offense' against cancer – research, for newer and better treatments and maybe even a cure."

TAKE ONLINE SURVEY FOR A CHANCE TO WIN RED WINGS TICKETS!

Henry Ford Health System is exploring new tagline options to be used in its advertising and marketing pieces. The current tagline "We're Henry Ford. We Can." has been in use for more than 10 years, and as Henry Ford Health System has evolved and grown in that time, it is time for our tagline to evolve, too.

A good tagline is a short phrase that captures the essence of brand. It should be rooted in the System's Mission, Vision and Values, and represent our brand promise and personality. As key stakeholders who live and breathe the Henry Ford brand every day, we'd like to get your feedback on tagline options.

Complete the survey online on HENRY and your name will be entered into a drawing. Two winners each will receive a pair of tickets to an upcoming Detroit Red Wings game.

- 9,490 with prostate cancer, and
- 8,250 with lung cancer.

More than 14,000 of those patients are treated and 3,000 discharged each year at the JFCI.

"Game on Cancer" is an unprecedented initiative supporting the fight against cancer, and is a dynamic extension of what the NFL and the Detroit Lions have been doing for years to raise awareness for breast cancer," says Detroit Lions President Tom Lewand.

MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

Dear HFWH Team,

I want to thank all the employees and volunteers who helped make this year's Harvest Moon Ball a success. This year we had a record attendance with over 600 guests. It was a wonderful evening and I look forward to making next year's even better. You can view photos and videos from the event posted on Henry.

I also want to thank the physicians and employees who dedicate their time to making Henry Ford Wyandotte's Yes Ma'am breast cancer program a success. This year's event had an impressive turn out and we were able to provide free mammograms to women who are uninsured. The program began in 1999 and continues to grow – more than 900 free mammograms have been provided through this program. It is programs like this that makes me so proud to be part of such a giving and supportive organization; we truly are a resource for our community.

I hope by now many of you have had a chance to stop by and check out our newly renovated coffee bar. The Bistro now has a seating area and new specialty items including sandwiches and smoothies. This is the first phase of our lobby renovations. We will begin the second phase with a new centralized registration desk that will help our patients navigate the hospital proficiently. Soon we will also feature a new donor wall and a warm, welcoming seating area for patients and family members to relax during their wait.

As always please feel free to share your thoughts and let's me know how we are doing at HFWCEO@hfhs.org and let's continue the dialogue.

Have a great week,

Denise Brooks-Williams

HFWH ROBOTICS MARKETING CAMPAIGN IS UNDERWAY

Wyandotte has a solid reputation, but the community, patients and family members may not be aware of the level of sophistication that exists at Henry Ford Wyandotte Hospital (HFWH). This is why the HFWH Marketing Department has launched a new campaign to raise awareness about some of the latest robotic technology used for gallbladders, hysterectomies, prostatectomies and endometriosis.

The goal of the Robotics campaign is to elevate perception that HFWH offers the latest and greatest in technology as it relates to the single-incision gall bladder surgery. TOUR DE FORD SWEEPER SAVES A LIFE

At the Tour de Ford cycling event benefitting the Henry Ford Hospital Tom Groth Patient Medical Needs fund, respect, responsiveness and customer service helped to save a life.

One of the "ride marshals" who were stationed along the course helped to save a man's life by recognizing what appeared to be a possible medical situation and responding quickly and appropriately.

The following story is from an event volunteer to Ron Hnilica of Henry Ford West Bloomfield Hospital Security, committee chair for the ride marshals.

"One of the riders on Tour de Ford was a straggler on the first half, and as a 'sweeper,' I started riding next to him a few miles from the halfway point at Henry Ford Wyandotte Hospital. After chatting a little bit, I wanted to see how his legs were holding out, since he looked fit but was riding slowly. So I asked, 'How are you feeling?'"

When he answered that he was having chest pains, I took that very seriously. He said he had them on Friday as well. So after much discussion, much hemming and hawing on his part, much persistence on my part, I was eventually able to convince him to get checked out in ER, since we were right there at the hospital, anyway.

His wife called me later that day and let me know that they ended up putting a stent in him right away, as his left artery was 99% blocked. So glad I followed my instinct that something was seriously wrong, and that he wasn't thinking clearly enough to know he needed help.

Time was definitely of the essence! The hospital staff was joking that they he was their only

I spoke with him yesterday, and he got very emotional on the phone, and said he is only alive because I was gently persuasive. In thinking about how fate brought me to be riding alongside him, one key component was, again, the decision (by event coordinators) to have 'sweepers.'

Everyone played a critical role in this happy ending."

HFWH CARDIOLOGIST DR. ABDULWAHHAB ALROAINI SAVES GROOM THE DAY BEFORE WEDDING

On August 31, 31-year-old groom Nicholas Nomura was on his way to the golf course for a pre-wedding celebration with friends.

Dr. Alroaini

He jumped in the car and headed toward his buddy's house when he felt like he had heart burn, so he stopped to pick up an antacid, but his chest pain only grew more severe. Nomura knew something was not right.

By the time Nomura arrived at his friend's house he was drenched in sweat. He got out of the car; his friend's mother saw him and immediately told him, "We're going to the hospital."

When she saw Nomura's face turn grey, she knew he was having a heart attack.

After arriving at the Emergency Department, Nomura was quickly in the care of cardiologist Abdulwahhab Alroaini, M.D. and his team. After they gave him an EKG, they learned that Nomura had over 95 percent blockage in his Left Anterior Descending (LAD) artery in his heart, otherwise known as the "widow maker," due to the severity of the blockage. The doctors prepared to insert a stent to allow blood flow to his heart.

As Nomura's bride-to-be and her family started arriving at the Hospital, it grew clear to Dr. Alroaini through their chatter that the couple planned to marry the next day and were preparing to cancel the wedding. The family was extremely upset because in addition to the groom's serious condition, they were anticipating over 200 attendees at the ceremony and reception who they would have to all send home. Dr. Alroaini suggested waiting until the procedure was completed before they called off the event.

"Don't cancel anything. You have to get married tomorrow," Dr. Alroaini reassured them.

He inserted the stent within 65 minutes, then performed an Echo test and discovered that Nomura's blockage was cleared.

Typically a severe patient like Nomura would have to stay at the Hospital for at least two days, but Dr. Alroaini explained to Nomura and his family what symptoms to look out for, gave them his personal cell phone number for any emergencies, and sent Nomura to the altar.

He and his bride invited Dr. Alroaini and his staff to the wedding, but the doctor declined the invitation to take care of other patients like Nomura.

The happy couple married on Sunday, September 1.

Nomura is now feeling good again and is back to work.

His bride is certainly happy with the outcome, "She was relieved and thankful. Now she makes sure I'm extra healthy!" said Nomura.

"We take care of our patients, but this is a great example of how we take care of more people beyond that individual," said Jay Pockyarath, director of cardiovascular and imaging.

"Looking back on the sequence of events, I know it sounds crazy, but it's like it was meant to happen the way it did," said Nomura. "Everything worked out perfectly," he added.

EMPLOYEE SAFETY STAY SHARP TO PREVENT SHARPS AND NEEDLESTICK INJURIES

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that each year 385,000 needlesticks and sharps-related injuries are sustained by hospital-based healthcare workers. Occupational exposure to bloodborne pathogens from needlesticks and other sharps injuries is a serious problem, but is often preventable.

At Henry Ford, needlesticks are one of the most frequently experienced forms of employee injury, and one of the key areas that Employee Safety reports out at the System's No Harm Campaign and continues to monitor and address. The System uses a frequency rate metric for measuring occurrence of needlesticks/sharps injuries, looking at injuries per 100 employees. Here are some of the System's needlestick/sharps injury rates for the past few years:

- 2011 – 2.3 FTEs per 100 Employees
- 2012 – 2.8 FTEs per 100 Employees
- 2013 – 1st Quarter – 2.5 FTEs per 100 Employees
– 2nd Quarter – 2.6 FTEs per 100 Employees
– 3rd Quarter – 3.1 FTEs per 100 Employees

As evident in these numbers, the Employee Safety team has seen the rate of needlestick/sharps injuries increase after a period of reduction. Needlestick/sharps injuries are still an issue that should be monitored closely by managers in their respective areas.

Here are tips to remember when handling sharps and needles.

- Don't multitask when handling sharps
- Don't recap a needle
- Don't force used sharps into a full sharps container
- Don't delay in disposing of needles or sharps
- Do activate safety devices STAT on used sharps
- Do change sharp containers when $\frac{3}{4}$ full
- Do report needlestick/sharp injuries in RL and immediately seek care at Employee Health •

BUSINESS ASSOCIATE AGREEMENT UPDATE

Henry Ford Health System (HFHS) has worked since July to notify all vendors of its requirement for all business associates to sign a Business Associate Agreement (BAA) in response to federal regulatory changes regarding protected health information (PHI). If an organization does not create, receive, maintain, or transmit protected health information on behalf of HFHS, they are not required to sign the agreement and will be removed from the list.

The Business Associate Blitz of 2013 is rapidly coming to an end. Vendors have responded positively to the System's efforts, and HFHS has processed hundreds of Business Associate Agreements since the process began.

If you have contracts that require a Business Associate Agreement, the Information Privacy & Security Office, in cooperation with Supply Chain and Vendor Compliance, is responsible for executing those agreements. Keep in mind that this procedure is a corporate function that is not managed at the business unit level. Please note that minor changes to BAAs with, or BAAs without, any changes can be reviewed and approved by the Information Privacy & Security Office within 48 hours of receipt. In addition, the response time may be longer, depending on whether or not the BAA needs to be reviewed by the System's Legal Department.

For questions regarding a Business Associate Agreement, contact the Information Privacy & Security Office at PrivacySecurity@hfhs.org. •
